As a resident of Jogues Hall, you possess certain individual rights which must be held in high regard. This document is intended to define your rights, in which you are entitled to as a resident, and agreed upon, which are expected of you as a resident of Jogues Hall.

I, a resident of Jogues Hall, agree...

...to keep Jogues Hall a clean, safe, respectful environment

...to be welcoming and accepting of fellow Jogues residents

...to treat others as I want to be treated

...to properly discard all trash in the hallways, lounges and bathrooms

...to value the information posted on bulletin boards and hallways and not rip them down or deface them

...to be appreciative of the housing janitorial staff and value their efforts to keep our environment sanitary and safe

...that if I smoke, I will do so 30 feet away from the building in a form of respect for those who live on the 1st floor or keep their windows open

...to respect the Residence Life staff as they program and strive to make Jogues Hall a safe, educational environment

...to keep track of my laundry and not let it sit in a dryer or washer for more than 10 minutes after it has finished

...to become involved and voice my concerns through the RCC, my RA or the AC

...to hold each other to a higher standard of living and respect as I prepare for my junior year at Fairfield University

...to follow the jesuit values of being men & women for others, striving for excellence and education of the mind, body and spirit

These rights are also my expectations as a Jogues Hall resident and I will give my best effort to see them in action.
