

BLOGS

Check out a Fairfield Library blog created just for freshmen as part of their Common Book Read entitled Your Voice Counts at <http://library2.fairfield.edu/blog> created by Ramona Islam and Jackie Kremer

For inspiration, take a look at these academic blog sites:

- Fairfield Art Seminar for Juniors – Professor Marice Rose
<http://juniorseminar06.blogspot.com/>
- 2006 Edublog Awards for Best Audio and/or Visual Blog:
Absolutely Intercultural - Anne Fox (from CV2 in Denmark) and Dr. Laurent Borgmann (from RheinAhrCampus in Germany)
<http://www.absolutely-intercultural.com>. Note: this is a mashup of podcasting, blogs, RSS and images
- 2006 Edublog Awards for Best Undergraduate Class Blog:
<http://cilass-student-blog.group.shef.ac.uk/>

- Blogging Across the Curriculum -Pattie Belle Hastings, Assistant Professor, Quinnipiac University (CT). A course resource for the Interactive Digital Design Program, this site uses blogs as a substitute for traditional paper journals.
<http://mywebspaces.quinnipiac.edu/PHastings/bac.html>. Specific course blog - <http://quidd.blogspot.com/>
- FroshComp -Terry Elliott, Western Kentucky University. A freshman writing class using weblogs as an important tool for composition and publishing. <http://telligo.net/>
- Music 1 – Introduction to Music -Dan Mitchell, de Anza College. "This web site contains resources and information for Music 1: Introduction to Music classes.
<http://faculty.deanza.edu/mitchell/music1/>
- Rhetoric and Democracy -Dr. Chuck Tryon, Georgia Tech. English 1101 class discussion will focus on political campaigns. Visitors are welcome to leave comments and participate in the discussion.
<http://democracymatters.blogspot.com/>

How to get help...

For assistance contact, Jackie Kremer

- jkremer@mail.fairfield.edu or
- call her at (203) 254-4000 ext. 2587 or
- IM her at fairfieldjack at AIM

