

The Media Center is pleased to announce that our campus cable system has been expanded from 92 channels to 170 channels---with 54 High Definition Channels, including HD versions of all our previous offerings, and some additional digital channels not previously offered on our system.

The addition of high definition channels on our campus cable network puts Fairfield ahead of most colleges and universities in the region, and indeed, in the nation. Cablevision has worked exclusively with Fairfield in designing the system that makes this possible without the need for digital cable boxes at each outlet.

To access these new channels, you will need a television that is capable of receiving digital and HD channels (with a standard clear Qam/ATSC tuner). Most of the new digital and HD digital channels have channel numbers with a decimal point after the analog version of the channel (e.g. WNBC analog is on channel 4; WNBC HD digital is on channel 4.1). You can use the automatic programming function on your television set menu to seek out and lock in these new channels on your television. If you do not have a television with a digital and HD tuner, you will continue to receive our regular standard definition offering of analog channels.

If you have any questions about our new system, please call (203) 254-4000 ext. 2593.

Here is the new line-up of our new cable system:
