

Charles F. Dolan School of Business Graduate Certificate Programs

Overview

Fairfield University Dolan School of Business offers a broad array of certificate programs at the undergraduate, graduate and professional levels. The certificates are designed to help students develop relevant, practical skills to set them up for success in a challenging job market. Earning a certificate is an excellent alternative to pursuing a degree. Doing so demonstrates dedication to a field and adds a valuable credential to a resume in a short period of time. Many of the classes at Fairfield Dolan are taught by working practitioners who are experts in their fields. Participants not only earn academic credentials, they get to network with professionals who share their business interests. Most certificates can be completed in one year or less.

Graduate Certificates (12-credits)

- Business Analytics
- Business Essentials: The Mini MBA
- Financial Planning and Analysis
- Marketing Analytics
- Strategic Human Resources in the Global Environment

If you decide to continue once completing the certificate you have already completed 12 graduate credits towards the M.S. in Business Analytics or the MBA.

Graduate Certificate Admission Requirements

Students with an earned undergraduate degree in any field are encouraged to apply. For Business Analytics, college math, applied business statistics and business operations are required as prerequisites.

Post Graduate Certificates (15-credits):

- Accounting
- Taxation

Post Graduate Admission Requirements

Post Graduate Certificates are designed for working professionals who have already earned a graduate degree.
