The Humanities Institute of the College of Arts and Sciences is pleased to invite students to apply for a position as Student Fellow in the Humanities Institute Seminar for the 2019-20 academic year.

Student Fellows will each be mentored by a Faculty Fellow, under whose mentorship the student develops and completes an independent, advanced research project in one of the Humanities disciplines (English, History, Modern Languages and Literatures, Philosophy, Religious Studies, or Visual and Performing Arts) for course credit. Positions are recommended for Humanities majors and minors, but are open to all exceptional students interested in learning more about research in the Humanities.

In both fall and spring, Student Fellows join Faculty Fellows in Seminar meetings to discuss research ideas and faculty work in progress. These meetings take place 4 times per semester on weekday afternoons, usually on Tuesdays 3:30-5:30 p.m., so applicants should keep this time slot open when registering for classes. Because all fellows are expected to engage in these seminar meetings, the seminar is generally not recommended for students who will be studying abroad for all or part of the academic year.

A full description of the program, along with application materials can be found on the Humanities Institute webpage.

Any questions about the Seminar and/or application process should be directed to the Seminar Chair, Dr. Patricia Behre at pbehre@fairfield.edu. Applications are due by April 2, 2019 (see submission info on application).

We very much look forward to receiving applications.

Nels Pearson, Ph.D.
Director, Humanities Institute